Determination of wind energy potential using machine learning

Goal
Applying machine learning algorithms on weather data identify meteorological phenomena, which are important for determination of wind energy potential. Use these phenomena as additional information to determine wind potential. From large-scale effects, the small-scale effects can be derived and applied.

Requirements
- Interest in machine learning, mathematical methods and energy system modelling
- Knowledge of: Python, MATLAB or other software for neural network programming

Contact
M.Sc. Andelka Kerekes
Lichtenbergstr. 4a, 85748 Garching b. München, Raum 2013
E-Mail andelka.kerekes@tum.de

Source: https://gramjuhl.com/use-machine-learning-to-optimize-your-maintenance-and-planning/